Alderman Mitts asked BACP to provide details on the Retail Food license fee structure change from a 3 tier to a 5 tier breakout by square footage. Here is the comparison:

Current fees, charged every two years:

0-4500 sq ft (81% of establishments)	$660
4501-10K sq ft (11% of establishments)	$880
10K+ sq ft (8% of establishments)	$1100

Proposed fees, charged every two years:

0-1000 sq ft (23% of establishments)	+ $0 (total $660)
1001-2500 sq ft (43% of establishments)	+ $280 (total $940)

The attached information is in response to questions posed at our department's hearing on Friday, October 27, 2017 to discuss the proposed 2018 budget.

Alderman Thompson asked what the status of the finger print report is.

The report was published and made public on November 6, 2017.

The researchers analyzed driver behaviors and public safety outcomes of rideshare and taxi drivers, specifically looking at automated enforcement violations (speed and red light camera citations), arrest records, traffic crashes and total trips per driver to investigate differences in driving behavior.

Their findings show that the occurrences of negative driving behavior are rare, given the hundreds of thousands of events analyzed. On average, TNP drivers are more likely to have an automated enforcement violation, while taxi drivers tend to have higher vehicle crash rates. Arrest rates are similar between the two types, and extremely rare. The report is attached.

As always, please let me know if you have any further questions.

A Statistical Analysis of TNP and Taxi Driving Behaviors and Public Safety Outcomes

Benjamin Feigenberg
Department of Economics, University of Illinois at Chicago

Andrew Morgan
University of Illinois at Chicago

November 6, 2017

This study uses data on automatic enforcement violations, traffic crashes, and arrests records to investigate empirical differences between taxi and TNP drivers.

This study investigates statistical differences in outcomes between transportation network providers and taxi drivers and is designed to provide evidence on how drivers that have been cleared to provide service under background checks stipulated by local regulatory authorities in each type of driving platform differ in driving behavior and criminal offenses occurring after approval.

Two recent high profile cases warrant mentioning. In the first case in Chicago, Raja L. Khan was allowed to drive for the ride share company Lyft after having served seven years for a felony conviction for aiding an individual with ties to Al Qaeda.<sup>1</sup> Before his conviction he was employed for 30 years as a Chicago taxi driver and had attempted to reinstate his license but was denied by the city as well as the ride share company Uber due to his previous criminal background. In the second case, Sayfullo Saipov, who carried out the attack in New York City on October 31, 2017, was approved to drive for the ride share company Uber prior to the attack.<sup>2</sup> He had previously been charged with a misdemeanor vehicle related incident in 2015 and had been stopped twice in Pennsylvania, once in 2015 and once in 2012, none of which warranted exclusion from Uber's platform under the company's background check process. Based on his prior history, Saipov would have also passed a background check to be a licensed taxi driver in Chicago. These recent events demonstrate that passing a background check at one point in time is not perfectly predictive of future actions. Therefore, it is important to analyze data on a large sample of drivers to better assess differences in risk to consumers.

Recent studies have addressed the efficacy of alternative background check methods and broadly can be categorized into three main groups: those that explore the thoroughness and accuracy of background check systems,<sup>3</sup> those that explore the exclusionary effects that may occur as a result of background check protocols,<sup>4</sup> and studies that compare background checks across different industries (e.g. taxi, livery, and/or rideshare).<sup>5</sup> In contrast, this study does not provide evidence in support of one method over another, but rather presents differences in behavioral outcomes between the two platforms. Consequently, this study does not discuss the efficacy of each provider’s background check process. The studies cited above can better speak to this type of analysis.

For this study, we were provided data sets containing automated enforcement violations, traffic crashes, arrest records, and aggregated number of trips taken in each month for all TNP and taxi drivers from February 2016 to June 2017. Each data set contained a driver specific identification number that we used to match drivers across each of the data sets. The automated enforcement violations data set contains violations occurring from red light and speed cameras at a specific location and time. The traffic crash data set contains a list of all traffic crashes involving taxi and TNP drivers and the date of the crash. The arrests data set contains arrests for each driver and a description of the arrest. From this, we compute number of arrests in total, number of arrests related to DUIs, number of other vehicle related arrests (e.g. excessive speed, driving without insurance or a license) and number of arrests for offenses we categorize as non-vehicle, and non-DUI related (e.g. domestic battery, retail theft). The trips data sets contain the number of trips taken by each driver in each month, which we use to compute months where the driver actively participated in TNP or taxi driving. We use the data provided to identify incidents that occurred during the sample period of 17 months but do not address incidents that may have occurred before this period.

The descriptive results presented below are generated based on data from approximately 180,000 individual drivers (92% of whom are transportation network providers and 8% of whom are taxi drivers) who were active at some point during the sample period. Average incidence rates for each driver type are shown in Columns 2 and 3 of each table, with differences in outcome rates between the two driver types provided in Column 4. In each table, asterisks are presented in Column 4 to highlight difference that are statistically significant at conventional levels. Specifically, one asterisk denotes statistical significance at the 10% level, two asterisks denotes statistical significance at the 5% level, and three asterisks denotes statistical significance at the 1% level. A more statistically significant result indicates a higher level of confidence that the differences found are not solely due to random chance, with a significant result at the 1% level indicating the highest degree of confidence. In all cases, tests for differences are constructed using robust standard errors.

Each table employs a slightly distinct approach to characterizing differences in outcomes based on driver type. In Table 1, we present simple driver-level averages (i.e. each driver is weighted equally, regardless of number of trips taken). In Table 2, we construct a driver-level average number of incidents per month active (defined by a non-zero number of trips in a given month) and weight observations by the number of months that a driver is active. In Table 3, we employ a similar approach but use a higher threshold to define active drivers, now requiring that drivers complete more than 30 trips in a given month. For both Tables 2 and 3, results weight more active drivers more heavily rather than weighting all drivers equally (as in Table 1). Finally, Table 4 presents driver-level averages where the outcomes are indicators for any incident of a particular type, rather than counts of number of incidents.

Overall, results indicate that, on average, automated enforcement violation counts are higher for TNP drivers than for taxi drivers, and taxi drivers tend to have a higher crash rate. DUI and vehicle-related arrest rates are similar between the two types. Specifically, Table 1 shows that TNP drivers have a higher average number of total automatic violations (e.g. redlight and speed camera citations) over the full 17-month sample period, while having fewer total arrests, traffic crashes, and speed warnings. Patterns of differences appear similar in Tables 2 and 3 for total automatic violations, crash rates, and total arrests, while patterns are inconsistent with regards to speed warnings.

*  $p < 0.1$ , **  $p < 0.05$ , ***  $p < 0.001$

Finally, Table 4 indicates that the share of taxi drivers with any automatic enforcement violation is comparable to the share of TNP drivers with any automatic violation, suggesting that differences identified in Tables 1-3 are driven by TNP drivers with multiple violations. With regards to the magnitude of estimates, it is worth highlighting that differences between the two types of drivers tend to be small in size – the average TNP driver has approximately 0.1 fewer crashes over this period, less than 0.1 additional driving violations, and has 0.003 fewer arrests.

The attached information is in response to questions posed at our department's hearing on Friday, October 27, 2017 to discuss the proposed 2018 budget.

Alderman Lopez asked for details as to how the bag tax collection process works, especially for small businesses.

The Department of Finance, which is in charge of the bag tax and its technical implementation, provided the following information:

For retailers paying the tax through their wholesaler, they should take a credit for non-taxable bags on the next bill received and provide supporting documentation to substantiate their claim.

For retailers paying the tax directly to the City, the tax must be paid on a monthly basis for bags used or sold in the prior month.

Please note that the bag tax does not apply to paper and plastic bags when used in a store to:

- ✓ package loose bulk items, such as fruit, vegetables, nuts, candy or small hardware items
- ✓ contain or wrap frozen foods, meat or fish
- ✓ contain or wrap flowers, potted plants or other damp items
- ✓ segregate food or merchandise that could damage or contaminate each other
- ✓ contain unwrapped prepared foods or bakery goods

In addition, the bag tax does not apply to:

- ✓ bags provided by a pharmacist for prescriptions
- ✓ bags sold in packages like garbage bags, pet waste bags or yard waste bags
- ✓ bags provided by a dine-in or take-out restaurant
- ✓ bags of any type that a customer brings to a store for his/her own use
- ✓ newspaper bags
- ✓ dry cleaning or garment bags
- ✓ permanent plastic liners
- ✓ plastic bags with a retail price of ¢50 or more
- ✓ bags used to carry items purchased with government food assistance funds

For your convenience I have also attached a “Frequently Asked Questions” memo that was provided by the Department of Finance.

As always, please let me know if you have any further questions.

Chicago Checkout Bag Tax – Frequently Asked Questions
(Please consult ordinance for exact terms)

1. What is the Chicago Checkout Bag Tax?

It is a tax on the retail sale or use of checkout bags in Chicago. The tax rate is $.07 per checkout bag sold or used in Chicago, with $.02 remaining with the retailer and $.05 paid to the City.

2. What is a checkout bag?

“Checkout bag” means either a paper carryout bag or a plastic carryout bag that is provided by a store to a customer for the purpose of carrying goods out of the store.

3. What are the non-taxable or exempt paper and plastic bags?

Paper and plastic bags ordinarily intended and designed for use by customers inside a store to:

- package loose bulk items, such as fruit, vegetables, nuts, grains, candy, cookies or small hardware items
- contain or wrap frozen foods, meat or fish, whether prepackaged or not
- contain or wrap flowers, potted plants or other damp items
- segregate food or merchandise that could damage or contaminate other food or merchandise when placed together in a bag
- contain unwrapped prepared foods or bakery goods

Other non-taxable examples include:

- bags provided by a pharmacist to contain prescription drugs
- bags sold in packages containing multiple bags intended for use as garbage bags, pet waste bags or yard waste bags
- bags provided by a dine-in or take-out restaurant to contain food or drink purchased by the restaurant’s customers
- bags of any type that customers bring to a store for their own use or to carry away from the store goods that are not placed in a bag provided by the store
- newspaper bags
- dry cleaning or garment bags
- plastic liners that are permanently affixed, or designed and intended to be permanently affixed, to the inside of a particular bag
- plastic bags with a retail price of at least fifty cents ($.50) each

Additionally, the tax shall not apply to the retail sale or use of checkout bags that are used to carry items purchased pursuant to the Supplemental Nutritional Assistance Program or a similar governmental food assistance program.

Retailers should take a credit for tax exempt paper and plastic bags on the next bill received from their wholesalers. The wholesaler in turn should claim a credit for the tax amount refunded to their retailers on the next monthly payment. Retailers and wholesalers must keep records of all such transactions.

4. Who is responsible for collecting the Chicago Checkout Bag Tax?

Normally, the tax should be collected by each wholesaler who sells checkout bags to a store located in Chicago or to a retail customer in Chicago.

5. What is a store’s responsibility if it receives checkout bags upon which the Chicago Checkout Bag Tax has not been collected by the wholesaler?

If any store located in Chicago receives checkout bags upon which the tax has NOT been collected by any wholesaler, the store shall pay or remit the tax directly to the Department of Finance. For questions regarding the registration process, please contact our Business Contact Center at 312-747-4747 or by e-mail at RevenueDatabase@cityofchicago.org.

Chicago Checkout Bag Tax – Frequently Asked Questions
(Please consult ordinance for exact terms)

6. Does the Chicago Checkout Bag Tax have to be separately stated on the customer's receipt?

In the case of checkout bags sold by a store to a customer, the tax shall be charged to the customer, separately stated on the receipt provided to the customer, and identified on the receipt as “Checkout Bag Tax”.

In the case of checkout bags provided to a customer without charge, at its option, the store shall either:

- 1) Separately state the tax on the receipt provided to the customer at the time of receipt, in which case the store shall collect the tax from the customer; or
- 2) Not separately state the tax on the receipt provided to the customer, in which case the store shall not collect the tax from the customer but shall instead pay the tax itself.

7. What is the commission on the remittance or payment of the Chicago Checkout Bag Tax?

Every store that remits or pays the tax is eligible to retain $.02 per checkout bag sold or used, resulting in a net remittance or payment of $.05 per checkout bag sold or used. Accordingly, the amount that a wholesaler should be receiving from a store and remitting to the Department of Finance should only be the net amount of $.05 per checkout bag sold or used, less any credit for exempt bags allowed.

8. Does a store located in Chicago need to pay tax on the inventory it has on hand as of the effective date of the Chicago Checkout Bag Tax?

Yes, inventory should be performed by the close of business on Tuesday, January 31, 2017. To be considered timely, the floor tax return, site schedules, and payment made payable to the City of Chicago, are to be returned by mail and postmarked on or before Friday, March 3, 2017. These documents must be mailed to:

Chicago Department of Finance
City Hall, Room 107
121 North LaSalle Street
Chicago, IL 60602

9. Is a store that did not sell or use checkout bags required to file the Floor Tax Return?

Yes. Stores that did not sell or use checkout bags prior to February 1, 2017, are still required to file the Floor Tax Return.

10. Is a store that previously sold or used checkout bags but no longer does so required to file the Floor Tax Return?

Yes. The store is required to file the Floor Tax Return for any inventory that it had on hand on January 31, 2017.

11. Is a store that filed a zero floor tax return late still required to pay the $100 late filing penalty?

Yes. All returns filed after the March 3, 2017, deadline are subject to the $100 late filing penalty. A hold may be placed on your business license for failure to file a floor tax return, and a late filing penalty may be assessed for EACH SITE reported on the return.

12. I am a restaurant owner. Why did I receive this notice?

This notice is being sent to every business in Chicago that holds a retail license. If all bags used by your business are exempt per Question #3 above, please disregard this notice.

The attached information is in response to questions posed at our department's hearing on Friday October 27, 2017 to discuss the proposed 2018 budget.

Alderman Taliaferro asked what would be the budget impact if a $100 reduction for Taxi licenses and a $100 increase for TNP licenses were implemented.

Our fee structure does not work such that we could increase the license fees on TNPs in the same manner as taxi cabs. Fees are not levied on each TNP vehicle, but rather, one fee is paid for a general license for each TNP company. A TNP license fee is $10,000 a year per company plus an ongoing administrative licensing fee of 2¢ per trip for each vehicle. TNP licensing this year, so far, has brought in $1,410,512. Last year TNP licensing brought in $1,082,520.

Also, had the City reduced the Taxi license fee by $100 in 2016, the City would have lost $438,832. And, in 2017, year-to-date, the City would have lost $325,425.

The attached information is in response to questions posed at our department's hearing on Friday, October 27, 2017 to discuss the proposed 2018 budget.

Alderman Reilly asked for a list of AirBnB buildings, the number of units in the building and the number of units in the ward that are registered to other platforms. In addition, the number of citations issued.

This month, aldermen will receive the required Aldermanic Report from AirBnB per MCC 4-13-240(c) that will provide available ward-specific information regarding short term rental units in their ward. We are working with AirBnB to finalize the report parameters, data collection and formatting. At this point in time, only one Short Term Residential Rental Intermediary, AirBnB, is licensed.

Per the House Share Ordinance and agreed upon Quality of Life Plan submitted by AirBnB, we are not permitted to disclose this information unless it is a life safety issue/hazard. Therefore, we are unable to provide a list of buildings in the 42nd Ward where AirBnB hosts are registered. To date, 13 citations have been issued to ineligible hosts in the 42nd Ward.
